TLDR: BUY new shares via IEX member brokers if you care for your purchasing power to matter. Put shares you don't care to sell in CS. Euro apes should check out IBKR for buying and transferring to CS for their infinity pool box.

Hello Apes,

Some of you might remember me be from a while back regarding the IEX routing issue with TDA, mainly that TDA was routing all of the IEX bound orders through Citadel. TDA gave some bullshit response that all orders were routed to IEX, which I guess legally was correct but practically, it is a fuck you, bitch, typo response. If you send an order through shitadel, then shitadel will front run that same damn order even on IEX. 1000 miles of cable can't help when they get the data before IEX.

I sent an email to IEX asking about this issue. While I did not receive a response, others have.

Based on this response it appears that unless order is routed through a member of IEX, it will not avoid PFOF.

I am not here to tell you what to do... fuck off Fidelity shills, fucking herpes. I am not telling you to use any brokers to avoid haters. But apes who care to make their buying power heard can vote with their money. If they so choose, they can pick a broker that is an IEX member and buy their new share there. I know y'all addicts still using :D I am sure other apes will start providing guides on various IEX members, if your brain too smooth to figure out how to route an order. hey, i aint hating ;) I personally will pick 2 and move out of TDA. FUCK YOU TDA!!!! Never fucking again. These are my shares for selling, I also keep some shares with CS for my infinity pool and to ensure I get some of that sweet, sweet NFT juice.

As a side note, I have seen reports that that euro apes can get direct registered shares by buying via IBKR and transferring to ComputerShare. I can't confirm as I am a US based monkey but I hope to start the ball rolling this discussion.

I know y'all came here for a 6 months battle and a party in NY... err I mean Berlin... but this is now WW1, so I hope you brought some shovels and supplies because winter is coming. On the bright side, more and more lots are turning LONG, so the tax man will go lighter on you when the time comes.

Cheers,

i am stupid

PS Just trying to move public discussions on these issues forward, this info is the best of current knowledge. if you know better, please speak up and share. This is a sad state that it took "stupid retailers" this long to get this far on our understanding of market structure.
