Let's say the squeeze is happening and hedgies are scrambling to locate available shares.

It's speculated that retail owns all shares multiple times over.

So, what would happen if retail were to literally sell only 1 share per day back to the hedgies? Once the first sell is made, retail leaves the office for the day to return the next day to sell 1 share to the highest bidder.

Also, if you're holding xx xxx+, you can do whatever the fuck you want.
