Hello friends on the 8th of this month I sent DRS 16 of my GME shares from shitdelity to my computershare account. Normally the transfer is done in 3 days and by Friday they land in my account but in this case nothing happened, today I contact customer support for DRS my GME shares again and I see that the process is normal as Other times, however, I told the agent that I had already requested this a week ago and that they had not been transferred and I asked them if they knew the reason and this is the conversation .

This is the information that the agent provided me, at this point I don't know whether to believe them, I always take screenshots to have a backup and cover my back.

Has anyone been through this before?

Why didn't they tell me that my transfer had been canceled before and I had to contact them again?

BTW I think stocks are getting thin and as time goes on this could be a war for real stocks I'll keep an eye out and will let you know when they land anyway this is super bullish and remember DRS is the way
