A word of introduction:

the only thing left for us is to wait, so why not use this time to learn some skills that GME billionaires will need anyway. I'm talking to all of you non-English speaking apes! Let's learn some useful phrases that you could use in your day-to-day life!

I will be posting one idiom a day until the Mother of All Short Squeezes happens. Each will come with a meaning and an easy-to-remember example.

Idiom:

to be dog tired

exhausted

Example usage:

The media claim that we are dog-tired holding our GME position. I would say we are just getting warmed up!

Feel free to come up with your examples in the comments to help your fellow apes better understand the idiom! Don't forget to mention some fictional people and events!

I also have a newsletter delivering the idioms daily straight to your email inbox [\[here\]\(https://idiom.academy\)](https://idiom.academy).

Disclaimer:

Events and people described in the examples are fictional and any resemblance to a person living or dead is purely coincidental. The examples are not financial advice.
