

Title: Just a quick question I think should be considered, please read and give input! ■ ■

Author: Federal-Head6930

Created 2022-07-22 05:53:08 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/w52rt8/just_a_quick_question_i_think_should_be/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/w52rt8/just\_a\_quick\_question\_i\_think\_should\_be/

This may be a rambling mess of thoughts because I've been working 14 hours a day to buy more shares, my brain is exhausted. Over the past couple years after buying into gme I've started to realize the level of insider information that these top 0.1% fucks have that we could only dream of knowing. And maybe it's all interconnected and complicated than we think but hear me out. Say there's a Bruce Wayne type of billionaire that's not in bed with or involved with SHF. What's stopping Wayne from making a 9000 IQ move and dumping his multi billion dollar trust fund into the stock? We would all be in andromeda within 5 minutes, he would become not only the richest person to ever exist for a very long time but forever a legend. That's what these people want, right? More money, power, respect. Why hasn't anyone taken that opportunity? If I were in charge of a hedge fund in 2022, I'd be in the loop and would have already thrown everything I had at mayo man.