This will be a short post about a connection between Cohodes, tZERO, the NYSE and the connection to GME.

TLDR: Marc Cohodes have been involved with tZERO, a digital securities trading platform that have partially taken over by the ICE which also owns the NYSE

So what is tZERO?

It is a:

Also offering:

If that sound familiar, that is because that is also one of the speculated products that might be offered via the GME marketplace facilitated by Loopring.

Competition is good so problem here, however tZERO has recently been invested in by Intercontinental Exchange (also the company the owns the NYSE) and this investement have made:

"ICE a significant minority shareholder in tZERO."

Futhermore:

"in connection with ICE's investment in tZERO, David Goone, a longtime member of ICE's management team and currently ICE's Chief Strategy Officer, will join tZERO as its next Chief Executive Officer and will serve on tZERO's Board of Directors."

So what is the connection to Marc Cohodes?

Well Marc clearly has vested interest with tZERO and digital security exchanges.

So while I am not able to conclude anything major from this, it is clear that there is a connection to NYSE and ICE, which in other DDs have been linked to the GME sage. Which is why its helpful to highlight.
