

Title: WHY does this sub no longer allow images in posts?

Author: Cataclysmic98

Created 2022-03-09 19:12:22 UTC

Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/taf4yy/why_does_this_sub_no_longer_allow_images_in_posts/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/taf4yy/why_does_this_sub_no_longer_allow_images_in_posts/

Can anyone advise why posts can no longer have images in them? It is near impossible to write DD without images. No one likes reading walls of texts, and some concepts just simply require an image.

There are more and more restrictions on this sub, and prior popular upvoted and awarded posts have been deleted. I even had a post on GameStop financials reflecting on the upcoming release and highlighting last quarter results and images of 'GAMESTOP'S NET SALES GROWTH IS HEAD AND SHOULDERS ABOVE IT'S COMPETITORS' was deleted by mods after having received strong interest and awards. On inquiry the response I received was that it was 'not relevant'.

I love GameStop, GME and the apes in the communities that continually support initiatives to uncover and expose the illegal, unethical, unfair, deceptive, abusive, and anticompetitive business practices uncovered in our markets and against GME. I hope the mods on this sub will revisit the rationale behind banning images in this community. Regulation and oversight is important to keep the sub clean, but is it possible things have moved to the extreme - at the detriment of the overall purpose of the sub? Images are needed.