I'm reposting here to find a legitimate answer to my question. I was downvoted to oblivion in other sub but just trying to learn. Any help would be appreciated. Thanks.

Hello! I am a smooth brained ape but just speculating. This year the government had added a new holiday juneteenth but with this new holiday in place where the markets were closed, wouldn't this make the t+ days be +1 day added? Like I said, this is just speculation so please correct and educate me if this is wrong but I'm pretty sure all t+21 and t+35 should be +1 day. If this IS correct t+35 would actually be on Tuesday after the long weekend.
