Whatever you do, DO NOT LOOK INTO calls at the $0.50 to $20 strike price. They ARE NOT essentially the same price as buying shares, even at jan 2024 leaps. If you dare, then YOU MAY ABSOLUTELY NOT set a limit price where you can get a good deal. If your limit order does not get filled, there is actually still a chance somehow YOU WILL LOSE EVERYTHING.

Because these ultra deep in-the-money calls move in 1-to-1 lockstep with the stock price (1 delta) and in addition have almost no time decay regardless of expiration date (0 theta), YOU HAVE NO CHOICE BUT TO ACCEPT they are the riskiest possible options you could ever imagine buying.

Though even Chubfunkwonder sets the GME floor at $20 (equal to the cash on hand), OF COURSE YOU HAVE PROVEN YOU ARE TOO INCOMPETENT to exercise, anyway. Remember when you let that IBKR dude tell you this to your face?

If you really want to, only buy ATM calls so that they can push you out of the money where you lose all your premium! THIS IS THE ACTUALLY SMARTEST PLAN that helps protect your investment the most and is without a doubt the cheapest insurance you can buy so they will never ever get any more of your money.

Anyway, THERE IS NO POSSIBLE WAY ANYONE CAN PROVE you could DRS shares you exercise versus buying.

Otherwise as always, CONTINUE TO LISTEN AND TRUST it is much faster settlement to buy stocks at c+35 through your reputable broker as this works 100% in favor of your capital investment in this business. Plus you save on $.65 per options contract, so right off the bat you are on your way to making lots of returns!

I'm not even joking. DO NOT DO THIS. DAS VERBOTEN!! This is not only not financial advice, this is complete incoherency and you would be the dumbest person in history to give any credence, the very definition of the opposite of a hero or patriot, which everyone knows we all desperately want to be, otherwise we might as well die in the shadows.

NOT!

AND/OR NOT NOT!!
