

Title: Latest tactic from the establishment swamp in regards to Gamestop. They are painting us as unhinged and violent. We are just peaceful shareholders who like the stock and believe in the company!

So this just popped up on my Twatter feed:

<https://flic.kr/p/2ncu9DQ>

I don't follow this person. But because I have an interest in Gamestop, Twitter felt the need to put this Cabal plant in front of my face. This happens all of the time. Because I am interested in Gamestop, Twatter feels justified to fill my feed with Garbage from movie stock pumpers, known shills, and people like this guy. Dorsey and the team at Twatter most certainly aren't on our side in this.

Also I think it is very telling and no surprise that people who pump up movie stock were egging this guy on.

Making their enemies look unhinged and violent is nothing new from the establishment. They control the MSM and thus can brainwash people by appealing to emotion. They use terms such as racist, bigot, misogynist, violent extremist, etc to label their rivals in an effort to turn the world against them.

Make no mistake, attacks from the MSM are going to increase as we get closer to rocket launch. This guy on Twatter is just the beginning. There will be others like him and they will be used as justification for the "news" to start publishing their garbage. I have been down this road many times over the last 4.5 years. I know how these people operate. They are very predictable and have no new tricks. They divide, cheat, steal, destroy, lie and sometimes even kill to push their agenda.

Stand strong against these attacks fellow apes. When you see someone posting garbage like this, call them out on it! Tell them we don't condone violence and then fill their post with information in regards to what Mayo boy and his cronies have been up to and why Gamestop is such a big deal.

The corrupt MSM is stuck. They don't want to bring too much attention to Gamestop because they don't want other people jumping in. So they probably are going to spin this as "shareholders who were left holding bags in the company after the Jan 2021 skweeze have become increasingly threatening and violent". Next thing you know, there will be calls for every shareholder to be under surveillance. So it is important that we show them why we weren't left holding bags and how the shorts never closed their position. We need to remove the reasons they are going to use as justification for becoming violent.

Show them we are peaceful but show them why we are upset. Tell them about Citadel. Tell them about Bain and Amazon. Tell them about 2008. Tell them about Sears, Toys R Us, etc. Show them that the DOJ has started investigating the connection between the Central Banks and the hedgefunds. Post videos of well known people speaking out against naked shorting and market manipulation. Educate as many people as you can as to why we are holding and Ryan's vision for the future. Show the world that we are optimistic about Gamestop's future and Kenny and his friends going to jail.

If we are optimistic as to the future, there is no reason to resort to violence now.

Buckle up friends. I have a feeling it is going to be a very bumpy ride this week.

We will win and show the world the true value of Gamestop if we just buy, hodl and educate others about the situation.

None of this is financial advice. I just like the stock.
