Suppose you bought an NFT that acts like a discount card on the marketplace. it has a smart contract that counts your purchase and if the limit is reached the NFT is burned or send back to GamesStop. Suppose brand items like Nike sells Jordan shoes with NFTs attached to it through marketplace. The NFT is a power up that it has a smart contract that gives you discount on some other Jordan shoes. The smart contract also checks the wallet for collection of Jordan NFTs and if certain condition met you get some Jordan freebies or a limited edition or will mint another NFT with power up attribute. The owner can sell the shoes and the NFT together or separately. GameStop gets fees from the NFT, Nike gets 10% sale commission and the buyer gets the power up that he can use to get that limited edition.
