

Title: I'm not sure why this isn't blasted all over this sub and other GME subs!? THIS IS HUGE! It looks like Gensler is actually pulling through for us! Hedge Funds will have to report steep losses! Yes, we will be able to see just how much we are winning by buying and hodling GME! LFG!!!

Author: Mr_Intuition27

Created 2022-01-26 20:02:44 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/sdeylk/im_not_sure_why_this_isnt_blasted_all_over_this/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/sdeylk/im_not_sure_why_this_isnt_blasted_all_over_this/

"Large hedge funds and private-equity firms may soon have to start reporting steep losses, major redemptions and other extraordinary events in near real-time to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission -- a change that the regulator says will help it protect the financial system during meltdowns and wild swings like the meme stock mania that roiled markets a year ago."

" The plan is one of the SEC's most significant steps to increase supervision of hedge funds and private equity firms since Chair Gary Gensler took over last April. "

"The proposal, which passed on a 3-1 vote, would also:

- * Require buyout funds with $1.5 billion and above in assets under management to file the paperwork, known as Form PF. Currently the rule applies to funds with more than $2 billion.
- * Require private equity firms to report partner clawbacks or termination of a fund within one business day.
- * Add additional reporting for private equity to help the FSOC monitor funds that "may pose systemic risk."

Trading Platforms

The SEC also approved a proposal for imposing more regulations on various types of trading venues that aren't registered as exchanges or alternative trading systems. A registered firm that trades Treasuries would also face the kind of cybersecurity requirements that platforms involved in equities transactions do."

Is it me or could darkpools be impacted by that last paragraph?

Either way, this is definitely a step in the right direction. We are winning the GME war apes! The GAME STOPS with us!

Tits = JACKED.

Sauce: <https://finance.yahoo.com/news/hedge-funds-face-sec-disclosures-150644566.html>