It seems like a lot of us try to apply our moral values to the SHFs. We seem surprised when we realize that they honestly intend to tank the market and collapse the system rather than settle their tab when GME finally squeezes. But we should keep in mind that these are the same people who have been routinely death spiraling companies for years. Imagine where we might be now if the promising cancer research or tech start-ups might have had a chance to bring their products to market.

I fear that when the dust settles the biggest offenders will receive another bailout because they are too big to fail. I worry that there will be no jail time and that they will get another cost of doing business slap on the wrist at best, and may even get to acquire some of the small firms who do fail for pennies on the dollar, at worst. I hate these people. They are a scourge.

u/ddcrx is dead-on correct. When a redistribution of wealth occurs we need to be better than these asshats.
