So I've been thinking about the Microsoft acquisition of Activision and of how it may affect GME. Feel like this is bullish. I want to ask the board here what folks think ... remember that agreement GameStop has w Microsoft wheee GameStop has a share of all Microsoft products sold in a GameStop? It would be good for revenue if GameStop gets it's marketplace to sell activision related products by way of metaverse things. If you think about it, it's tough to find a universe where GameStop wouldn't sell on its platform Activision Nfts. Considering GameStop's agreement w Microsoft, GameStop would have a piece of that sweet meta bucks. There is more money to make in the cut GameStop gets from metaverse sales in its platform than if they were just a storefront and selling disks of these Microsoft products

Thoughts? If I'm overlooking something that burns this whole thing to the cold hard Kenny ground.... Believe it or not, still bullish
