#Welcome to RatioAtBlessons

Welcome to your investment community.

Here you are more than retail.

Here -

- you don't have to be an insider.
- thinking outside of the box is encouraged.
- success is only limited by one's willingness to take a risk

Your open exchange of investment ideas and opinion are encouraged. Discuss, meme, or lurk. Tell a story with your trades, dream with your trades, and know that you are not alone.

No bullying, no hate allowed.

Here you RatioAtSuccess.

Here you are /RatioAt_____?

##Purpose

/r/ratioatblessons is meant to serve as an add-on subreddit to enhance the experiences that you have as an investor on Reddit. Please share your ideas, opinions, questions about any range of investment related topics. As a community, we will strive to promote and encourage creative thinking, creative communication, and free-flowing discussion. /r/ratioatblessons is also a place for civil discourse and dissenting opinions. As a community, we feel it is important to look at every conversation from every angle possible. Providing fresh perspective is always encouraged.

##What /r/ratioatblessons is not

/r/ratioatblessons is not meant to be a replacement for all of the investment communities across Reddit. The community is also not meant to be a place for giving financial advice or promoting your own brand. This is not a place for racism, sexism, bullying, hate speech, threats, or harassment. Hate of any kind will not be tolerated.

##Posting Guidelines

* **Familiarize yourself with the rules of the subreddit before posting.** To ensure your post is not removed, be sure to familiarize yourself with the rules of the subreddit prior to posting. The rules can be found below or on the sidebar.

* **Cross-posting content from other communities is encouraged.** We believe that it is important to discuss information from every source.

* **Search the subreddit for the content you're about to post before posting.** It's possible that someone has already posted the same thing and a great discussion has already been started!

* **Tag your post with the appropriate flair for the topic before posting.** The community will cater to a variety of investment strategies, interests, and levels of experience. Flair makes it much easier for community members to filter by the types of posts that interest them.

##Rules

1. **No hate, no bullying.** As stated above, racism, sexism, bullying, hate speech, threats, and harassment will not be tolerated in any capacity.
2. **No spam or monetary self-promotion.** Spam, ads, solicitations (including referral links), and monetary self-promotion posts or comments are not permitted within /r/ratioatblessons.
3. **No coordination of brigading or slander of other subreddits.** /r/ratioatblessons actively encourages its users to be a part of many different subreddits and as such will not tolerate brigading efforts or slander towards any other subreddit. Please take the negativity elsewhere.
4. **No market manipulation.** The community is made up of individual investors and intended for discussion around theories, strategies, news, and information. Do not use this community as a way to manipulate the markets or organize intentional group movements in order to develop an unfair advantage over other investors.
5. **Use appropriate flair.** To keep the subreddit organized and relevant, please flair your post appropriately before posting. If your post fits into several flair categories, please choose the most relevant flair category. If a post is hard to link to the flair used, you may be asked to provide justification for the post and how it fits within /r/ratioatblessons.

###Consequences of Violating the Rules

**Any post or comment that violates rule 1 will lead to an immediate and permanent ban from /r/ratioatblessons.**

Any additional rule violations will be discussed further by the moderators with the author before an outcome is determined. Users will always be given a reason as to why an action was taken against their post, comment, or account.

##Tips for Navigation

* **Use flair to your advantage.** Filtering by flair is as simple as clicking on the flair that you are interested in seeing. Use this filtering technique to see only the content that interests you most.

* **Check the sidebar for important external links and resources.** We will often update the sidebar to include links to information important to investors with a short description of what the link contains.

* **When in doubt, ask in the lounge chat or message the moderators.** There will almost always be someone available in the lounge chat to talk with. If you have a question or suggestion that can only be addressed by the moderators, please contact us through the link provided. Please do not directly message a moderator as it may get lost in messages. The moderators are regular users as well and will have more than just moderation activities to sort through in their personal messages.

##A Final Note from RatioAtLeverage (RAL)

Our community is very fresh and our moderators are very excited to help foster a culture of creative expression and information sharing. It may take time for us to adjust to running a subreddit, so please be patient with us. Please report anything you see that violates the rules and we will respond as quickly as possible. Any new features being provided to the community or changes to the way that content is managed will be communicated by a moderator under the **Moderation Announcements** flair. **Thank you for being an important part of our growing community.**
