The AH movement last night was fun to watch. Some might say my first time, popped a cherry. I am an Augusta Ape, late bloomer. 30% increase in AH and I could only watch. It was fun.

Then reality set in with those crazy news posts. The yahoo finance one today was the icing on the cake. They said "GameStop NFT Market place is dead on arrival" and also referred to al Qaeda And using the market place to launder money. Seriously?

Anyways, hype day. The news interviews about it today suggested that GME was only doing this to boost income but they will fail. That is what they think.

This takes us to Aug 8th. This should be the day, possibly Aug 9th for the Q2 2022 quarterly report. I am going to assume and hope and pray that the NFT marketplace is officially launched and running in Q1. This will make for a hopefully high income second quarter. This report will be the growth we all want and it will be there, in black and white for the world to see.

This will also also be an awesome stepping stone towards the S&P; 500.

Confirmation to the world of what Apes already know. We are not a dying brick and mortar. We are GameStop. We are Apes. We love the stock. ■■■■■■
