

Title: Is it true that GameStop cannot issue any dividends until Nov 2022? If so, how has that not come up in the gme subs these past 3 months?

Author: Mr_FakeNews

Created 2021-09-09 01:29:11 UTC

Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/pknsu4/is_is_true_that_gamestop_cannot_issue_any/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/pknsu4/is_is_true_that_gamestop_cannot_issue_any/

If so, how come that was never brought up much, if at all, in the gme subs the last few months?

Edit: Sorry for no sources; I thought these comments were widespread than they are. There are comments under posts on Superstonk that reference this document as the source for GME not being able to issue a dividend until November 2022. I was able to quickly find 2 comments that talk about it.

Comment 1

Comment 2

You may be able to find more by searching for posts that either mention no dividend being announced, or posts that were disappointed by earnings.

Final Edit: looks like this whole situation is no biggie. This comment explains it pretty well. Also other replies, down below, mention that the users in my sources have incorrectly inferred info from the document I sourced. I hope this clears it up for anyone else who was worried like I was.