So,

Following the very likely stock split of our beloved favourite GME, what are the possible outcomes?

I think that we all know that short sellers are in big trouble trying to forward the dividend in stocks. What could happen when stock holders (real or synthetic shares) do not get their dividend shares? Will someone step in or is it just game over to those poor excuse of market makers and short sellers?

I personally think that it will result in one hell of a mayhem and we will be another step closer to justice happening and our long waited and inevitable victory.

Could someone wiser shed some light of enlightenment upon this poor finnish ape?

Peace, and obligatory GME to The Fucking Moon! ■
