Hello my fellow apes!

This post is not about DD or financial analysis of GameStop, but about how we have behaved from the beginning in our beloved action, directed by Ryan Cohen and his entire team of wonderful managers.

I have been in this story since the beginning of the fall from $500 to $40, my first purchase was at $414 7 shares, I deposited everything I had in my broker to GME and I did not sell a single share despite the falls and rises.

I have believed from the first moment in all the DD that we have read, I have been educating myself in the stock market and in how they totally manipulate the global stock market.

After more than 1 year and a half I have discovered the philosophy that represents each one of us, Gaman (剛), originating from Zen Buddhism which means "to bear the apparently unbearable with patience and dignity". The term is generally translated as "perseverance", "patience", "tolerance", or "self-sacrifice". A related term, gamanzuyoi (剛ずい gaman-tsuyoi?), which adds tsuyoi ("strength"), means "to suffer the insufferable", or "to have great stoic endurance".

We have been stoic, nothing moves us, only the future of being able to solve the world's problems, higher prices, the world destroying itself, but we are still here and nothing can stop us.

My ape friends, I just want to thank everybody in this sub and just want to say to you Gaman.
