

Title: Anyone else notice the relationship between VIX, GME, and the major indices in the last 2 hours?

Author: Puzzleheaded_Bub

Created 2022-04-29 19:57:25 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/ueu5a9/anyone_else_notice_the_relationship_between_vix/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/ueu5a9/anyone_else_notice_the_relationship_between_vix/

Full disclaimer... I am so smooth that this post probably can't even be considered speculation. Maybe there should be a tinfoil option. That being said, this is absolutely not financial advise in any way.

Anyways, I was sitting in my office ■ and figured I'd check the charts just before close. Lo and behold I notice an interesting connection between the DOW, S&P; 500, NASDAQ, the VIX, and GME. The 3 major indices all move almost identical to each other (nothing surprising or strange about that). GME was also following a similar path and nothing really interesting was happening. Then around 2:00 the VIX starts climbing more than usual, and there's a fairly distinct variation between GME and the other indices.

It's not an incredibly drastic opposite move, but GME definitely started making more upwards movement (albeit unimpressive) and the indices very much stayed on a downward trend.

There could be absolutely no correlation between any of this. Like I said above; I'm of the ultra smooth variety. But I liked pretending I saw something potentially telling while visiting the porcelain throne.

That's all. Carry on with you wonderful lives and have yourselves a giggle at my lack of wrinkles. I'm laughing about it too!

As always ■■■■■■