What are GWG L-Bonds?

Investopia definition states that L Bonds are :

An L bond, classified as an alternative investment, is a bond that finances the purchase of life insurance policies on the secondary market. An L bond is unrated and seeks to provide a high yield for the bondholder in exchange for bearing the risk that insurance policy premiums or benefits may not be paid. L bond is a specialty high-yield bond issued by GWG Holdings.

Further reading on L-Bonds <https://www.investopedia.com/articles/investing/102816/what-advisors-should-know-about-l-bonds.asp> key take at the moment is 2008 flashback re the MBS ratings... "These bonds are not rated by the ratings agencies and have maturities that run from two to five years"

Who issues L-Bonds? Only one company, GWGH. Who owns all the GWGLBONDYEARS - oh it's only IFP <https://www.holdingschannel.com/bystock/?symbol=GWGLBONDYEARS>

A lot going on in this little bit so.. this one's for the home team.

Going through IFP advisors reports through time. We can literally observe an incereas of these positions VERY quickly with each passing reporting period.

NittyGritty's. Gwg life + Gwg holdings were also after the parallax health sciences scam in 2015

<https://www.sec.gov/litigation/admin/2013/34-70944.pdf> states Bott and Falkenberg willfully aided and abetted and caused Parallax's violations. During the relevant period, Bott was Parallax's sole owner and manager, and Falkenberg was Parallax's chief compliance officer ("CCO").
