For new apes and investors, funds hunt to stop losses to help add downward pressure on the $GME share price without having to expend additional resources. This might be a spicy week, even so, please don't use stop losses. It's counterproductive to let the funds know your plans since they don't share theirs with you.

Also, please vote if you haven't already and today would be a good day to register any shares you might not have yet.

Hope everyone enjoys the ride today.
