Everyday we watch the skyrocketing cost to borrow, and fluctuating number of shares available to short. The SHF's know we look at this data. We get excited or disappointed based on what is published. We also know that the dataset is self-reporting, i.e. they say whatever they want. This accounts for the wildly different sets of numbers from Fidelity to Ortex.

My hypothesis is that *ALL OF THIS DATA IS TOTAL BULLSHIT, just like all the other self-reported data such as the number of shares actually shorted.

Why do they do this? To create FUD, to manipulate our emotions, to try (and fail) to "fatigue" us.

My Opinion: IGNORE ALL THE DATA. The Price is Fake, The Short Interest Is Fake, ALL OF WALL STREET IS FAKE.

My Solution: Buy, HODL, DRS, REPEAT.

Ryan Cohen is correct: Uranus Is Inevitable.
