I've been a rewards member for awhile and order things every month from GameStop. The past few months I've been noticing they're running out of lots of different things. Still, the shipping has been great. I ordered a physical game and some electronics about 3-4 weeks ago and some items haven't even shipped. This is great news to me. I'm glad to see they have very high demand and supply/shipping is struggling to keep up. Anyone else noticing this?
