Many apes didn't make it to space and back). However, Ham was one that did](https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Ham_(chimpanzee))) but he went through 2 years of training. We only have days, weeks, or months at best to train for the insane roller coaster ride that's to come. Part 2 of rocket training is here!)

***Not financial advice.*** *I am literally an ape. I've only been dabbling in this stuff for months so I have no history, just a ton of reading. I welcome corrections, additions, and advice.*

**TL;DR:** This is rocket training. Do you think you can go to NASA and say "I want to go to the moon today day" and be fully ready?

*Edit: Welcome new people! I'm happy that more people are able to see this posting. Please remember to take everything I say with a grain of salt because I am a n00b. However, please do enjoy and expose yourself to the concepts I am trying to share, the main one being "Prepare yourselves for fluctuation of high prices." Enjoy! Also, I tried to individually respond to all comments and thank for all the awards, but reddit glitched out on me :( I apologize, yet sincerely, thank you for the awards and positive comments!*

You need to understand and ACCEPT the price per stock can be a ridiculous price

This post here) talks about the mathematical, realistic possibility of the stock being at 500k. The simple, proven fact that "shorts must be covered" also tells us that if the majority of retail investors hold their stocks, then the price will drive up indefinitely till people start selling thanks to the automatic ticketing that will attempt to fill in the shorts.

You also need to see that your price per stock could be going from $50 to $100 to $1,000 to $10,000 to $100,000 to $500,000 to $1,000,000. I will be using full numbers, no abbreviations, to help expose you to seeing these numbers and being comfortable with them.

As u/Craind said in his critically, informative post):

>"The conditions that led GameStop to where it is today is a miracle in itself, and the support of retail traders has led to expose a fatal mistake of the rich. Because a short position has infinite loss potential. There is SO much money in the world, especially in the derivatives market.

>This should scream to you that any price target that you think is low, could very well be extremely low in YOUR perspective. You might just be accustomed to thinking "$X price floor is too much money. There's no way it can hit that". I used to think that too, until I dove deep into this bullshit."

We have been conditioned to believe that "it's too much money" and that we only need "a little bit for life changing." We used to think that we could never get to space, "it's impossible." Oh wait, we got to space and to the moon btw.

**The lies of “there’s no way that much money exists”****

You will hear in the future, and already now perhaps, that it would be impossible to pay everyone the insane amount of money per stock. That is a lie because we don’t fully grasp how much money is in the world along with how much gets traded daily.

In the “Why the 500k floor is possible,”) towards the end the author says that the payout in the simulation is $30 trillions, *ahem*, **$30,000,000,000,000**. The companies ALONE have trillions (**$x,000,000,000,000**) in assets alone on top of the fact that this whole thing is insured by the DTCC for $67 trillions... **$67,000,000,000,000****.

It is also worth noting that the government will most likely step in and bail everyone out... we saw it during the 2008 crash with bailouts in the billions (**$700,000,000,000**) as covered in the “The Bigger Short”) (you must read it). They will do the same if this goes up like we plan it to. They’ll step in and cover in order to keep the economy going. People will try to tell you, “There’s no more money. They went bankrupt. Etc.” *More on that later.*

You’ll hear that the shorters are “losing millions (**$xx,000,000**) everyday they hold” and how that’s hurting them. Please realize that if the companies are worth a trillion **$x,000,000,000,000** that a hundred millions **$xxx,000,000** is **0.01%... ZERO POINT ZERO ONE PERCENT**. That is you paying a penny to keep $100. That’s why they’re fighting so hard and able to do so.

**Why it’s important to understand those fundamentals****

You probably know the sensation of a roller coaster. Cling to that sensation. The fastest roller coaster goes 149 miles per hour. The speed of a rocket ship is **18,000** miles per hour. This analogy is for what we will be experiencing. The “roller coaster” price change we’re feeling from $30-$40-$50-$70-$50 is going to be NOTHING compared to the “rocket launch” price changes of **$10,500-$45,000-$90,000-$100,000-$98,000**, just as an example. Did it scare you seeing $100,000 drop to $98,000? This is what we’re training for. To start working on preparing for such numbers. It helps to understand that it’s possible to get that high, and that it can be paid for so that you **don’t sell too early****.

It’s time to start training your mind to see higher number fluctuations

When the time comes, and I believe that it will, the price will skyrocket into different stages. The possible stages are shown here.

<https://preview.redd.it/t7mfwxpuso571.png?width=320&format=png&auto=webp&s=d95f49328fd35cac7056c93ae642714ce538ed53>

*The following section is reference numbers and simulations for the mind.* It’s currently easy (with respect I say easy, I understand lots of people find it difficult as it is currently a lot for some) to hold as we fluctuate in the $50s. A 20% change of $10? That’s coffee money. How about a 20% change in the **$10,000**s, that’s **$2,000**? Now you’re probably thinking “Oh I could do something with that much.” It becomes a lot more difficult to simply “hodl apes.” But that is why you’re here and reading! You want to be able to hold.

Venturing into the unknown is a bit scary. Astronauts going to space for the first time is scary! But they practice, practice, practice in order to be more comfortable during the journey. We must practice seeing the money fluctuate heavily in order to not freak out and sell too soon.

Example: Ham has 25 shares at $40. Current price is now $15,000 and fluctuating upwards. The tracker could, exaggerated, look like this.

25 shares at $15,000 baseline

Those are big jumps, but similar to what we're used to seeing in the $50 range, just more dramatic because of where price per stock is at. Now what about **$100,000** per share? Already Ham is at 2.5mil **$2,500,000** that's tempting by itself. But the price is still going up and reddit is screaming that the squeeze hasn't ended. These are the same percentages as before.

25 shares at baseline of $100,000

Ham just "casually" lost $1,000,000 in the course of the price change... the feeling of losing 1 million $1,000,000 is unfathomable to us everyday people. Do you understand what I'm trying to say? Do you see what I mean by we must begin training?

That simulation was only for 25 shares. The average is 103 shares per retail investor and would look like this.

No, don't skip down here. Go back and look at the photo. STARE AT IT. LOOK at the price changing rapidly. I will safely bet that you never thought that your account could merely, casually, lazily fluctuate in the millions (**$x,000,000**). If you don't think people will be ridiculously tempted to jump ship after seeing their money go from **$2,000,000 to **$1,500,000** or from **$10,000,000 to **$8,000,000** you're mistaken. This is why you need to get comfortable seeing these kind of numbers ahead of time.

**You can't just wait and expect you'll be able to handle the price changing****

People who set their alerts or wait for reddit to (unanimously) tell them the squeeze is happening will be anxious out of their mind if they're not mentally prepared. We need to get used to physically seeing these insane price fluctuations so that people won't bail and hurt the momentum.

I would petition or ask for a site that could take in current, real-world, minute-by-minute price fluctuations but to allow for artificial insertion of several 0's. I would definitely post often showing what the price difference would look like if it was $530, $5,300 etc.

It should also be used so that you are used to thinking "oh, it changed **$400,000** today. That's not too bad from yesterday's **$650,000** gain." The more we're used to these numbers, the better we will be able to encourage others to remain strong during the rocket launch.

**The world against us****

I include this segment because it is just as important as seeing the numbers. If you recall this photo, read it again,

<https://preview.redd.it/rm5s1wjnxo571.png?width=320&format=png&auto=webp&s=852645ae828ad2c98ac5b8bf87878baf9d97d1d2>

Those will be the indicators the media, friends and family, the world will try and use against us. You must be ready to see headlines such as "Citadel bankrupt. No more money to spend covering" or "It's impossible for all $GME & $AMC holders to get paid. Sell now." These are shill sayings, I know, and we're kinda used to it. This section is a reminder that the topics will change from "you're dumb" to "hey it worked, but they can't pay you" but still expect us to be dumb and sell early. However, there is a far darker topic that can surface.

>"$GME & $AMC holders will cause financial ruin"

>"$AMC to create market crash worse than 2008""Remember the 2008 crash? It's back bigger, badder all because of $AMC"

The big bois, who will be going down kicking and screaming, will try to place all the blame on us. You MUST be educated as to why it's not our fault, but theirs. Both for your own sanity but also to calmly talk to others about the situation if you're forced into speaking (to friends and family). These are links on the facts on how the crash may come about and why it does. (Please comment with more links to related DDs and I will gladly add them here)

Back to the fun stuff, prepping for and during the squeeze

I am no expert so I have included these links on how to best sell during the squeeze. Read it multiple times over, then read it some more. Learn and know how to sell on your specific platforms where your stock resides. The worst thing that could happen is for you to miss it entirely or sell too soon because you panicked. (Again, I welcome more links to other quality posts on this topic)

GME & AMC Exit Strategy by u/NHNE)

Study of a Squeeze by u/Cigarsnbeer)

* No one knows when the squeeze is happening, and no one knows for how long. (It's my amateur opinion that the squeeze will be in stages where each level of company that goes under will be a stage)

* If you, like me, can't watch the stocks every second, then I would set high price alerts then double check your reliable sources if the squeeze is happening. (Truthfully I will be using unanimous, non-shill reddit postings on if squeeze is truly happening or not. Not WHEN to sell, but if the squeeze is activated or not)

* Concept is to sell in stages and only during the downward spiral. Simply because you never know what the cap is and you'll hurt the momentum if you sell too soon.

* You might think "Once I hit **$85,000** per share, I'm set!" but you'll miss a lot more money if it goes to **$100,000** per share. If it goes back downwards, then you can still safely sell at **$85,000** and still be good.

* Mentally prepare yourselves for the big swings of cash so you don't panic sell

**Holding is as important, but going to be more important**

Every person counts. From a x to the x,xxx holder. If a bunch of x, xx holders decide to tap out, it will mess it up for the xxx and x,xxx holders and vice versa. In my opinion, the people in the toughest spots are the x and x,xxx holders. The thoughts are "I only have a few shares, might as well get out" or "Selling now can't hurt" compared to "Oh boy I could get out now and live forever comfortably" or "this is what I was waiting for and took a risk on." Those in between either have radically life changing money or just enough to add to their retirement account. In my opinion, a great way to think about your shares is, ***"Does this permanently change my life and others for the better?"*** and ***"Is this during an upswing or downswing"***

Why? Because this is our only and final shot. The government has already passed laws preventing this from happening again. They're not going to allow retail investors to jump on a short squeeze like this. That makes this the only chance we got to make life changing money.

>u/Minako_mama \- "So, first we were hoping to make enough money during the MOASS to retire early. Now we need the MOASS since we probably won't have a business anymore when the house of cards falls apart."

>u/magnificentmemer It's not even a crusade against the 1% anymore, it's a hedge so we can actually afford sh\*t after this.

**Tiny TL;DR** (This is a refresher, not a replacement for reading)

- * Understand the price per share can mathematically and practically reach from 100k to infinity
- * Get used to seeing large number swings in the thousands (x,000) and hundreds of thousands (x00,000) so you don't panic sell.
- * Remember who's fault it actually is if market crashes
- * Know how to sell during the squeeze via resources
- * HODLing is important now and will be more in future
