

Title: Don't trust the headlines! Simply WallST article suggests multiple insiders are selling. Buried in the article they admit their headline is false. Correct headline would be "Insider" - singular.

Author: Hawthorne

Created 2022-02-23 15:13:47 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/szjs3g/dont_trust_the_headlines_simply_wallst_article/

Url: <https://i.redd.it/4bhq9j8xmlj81.png>

Implies, though doesn't state, there is more than one

In the last twelve months, the biggest single sale by an insider was when the Independent Director, James Grube, sold US$414k worth of shares at a price of US$218 per share. We generally don't like to see insider selling, but the lower the insiders feel about the current share price. James Grube was the only individual insider to sell over the last year.

There we go- buried at the end of a paragraph they quickly give the disclaimer that there was only one.