The new price that GME will open at tomorrow after the stock split is $38.37 according to the company's announcement today. As far as whether or not premarket trading is restricted tomorrow, let me take a minute to look into that for you.

Thank you

Yes, it appears pre-market trading for GME is restricted until the post split shares are allocate into shareholders' accounts just before market open. Trading with the post-split shares will then begin at market open.
