We're in the kitchen talking about the reverse repo that the government has been rigging everything up with on the daily.

As she's casually making sandwiches for our kids she says "Is that why the government is letting the market get messed with? Are they using that to stop you from going to the moon?"

Now I'm am not a smart ape but it got me wondering so I'm going to ask for some smarter apes insight. There are a lot of very powerful and rich people in government that don't want to lose that. We know they don't give a shit about us.

Is the government not doing anything about the manipulation of the market because they are helping hide all the synthetics with the repo every day?

If this is just retarded I'll just go back to my DSR tree and hold like a good smooth brain but I've got a feeling if someone smarter than me was to take a look at the data they might find some correlation to GME price movement and the daily repo.
