

Title: The count a year ago

Author: UncleDunk

Created 2022-06-02 03:17:09 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/v2zf85/the_count_a_year_ago/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/v2zf85/the_count_a_year_ago/

Hey all,

Jan '21 ape here. Been holding with the best of them and DRS'ing with the dirtiest.

Anyways, I was wondering. I remember this time last year pretty fondly because of the event that cemented my resolve in our beloved GME. In particular I'm talking about when it was revealed during the annual meeting that every single share was voted (a complete statistical and overall insane improbability); meanwhile it was mentioned here that the typical voter turnout for corporate annual meetings is somewhere around 12.7% (iirc, could be completely wrong on this figure as I'm pulling from memory).

Basically I was wondering if we knew of anything similar happening this year with shareholder voter turnout for the annual meeting. I didn't see any mention of it over in /SS

Edit: I had my dates and meetings mixed up! Now I'm even more hype to check in tomorrow and see what the deal is