Here's their corporate Registration- in Wisconsin and NYC. The NY. Office is under an LLC called Kicohe. They also I believe are registered in California and Florida. The one document on that site is for issuing of shares which is interesting as that Means they'll be traded soon?

On my first post I was getting extremely frustrated because it got massively downvoted in seconds. I think this is a piece of the puzzle

Most likely you are onto something - the downvote army is a good indicator.

It made so much sense as soon as I saw it. I kept seeing all these rabbit trails between the two companies but everything is tightly filed under lawyers. But there's tons of connections. When I saw the Wisconsin thing it made complete sense. I thought it was odd that the company was getting a second llc but now I see why!

And I saw they also filed for shares!
