So we have seen 0 available shares before, but obviously not after fees were so high, but what is more amazing (and correct me if I am wrong) there is are only 29 (1000) ETFs available - this has never been so low, wasn't it? and all this happening after earning report forms release showing how much DRS is there? That is not a coincidence am I right? And all this DRS fud and drama in sub this week? I am buying more and you do you ;)
