Hi everyone....

I genuinely have some questions regarding DRS. Yes, I am one of the ones on the sidelines because I honestly am not sure about it and I'm hoping this community can guide me in the right direction (not financial advice).

First question is regarding when the time comes to sell (yea I know, I hate that too). There's seems to be some mixed messages regarding this. If I wanted to sell 1 share of GME for $25 million will this be able to be executed?

Second, when the squeeze starts and I'm in the middle of transferring, will I miss the MOASS because of the transfer?

Third, is Computershare really safe? Yea it's a loaded question but with the rampant amount of fuckery I wanted to know if there is a safe place for retail investors?

Fourth, what is the sole purpose of DRS?

Finally (for now anyway), how long can the transferring process take? I presume it depends.

I want to thank you in advance for taking the time to help this smooth brain ape out with answering these genuine questions as there is so much to take in.
