Wusup guys?

After reading posts about how broker could fuck us and not pay us and being liable for a $1 and \*hit I decided to DRS almost 100% of my xxxx GameStop shares! I have already DRSed 30% but just this morning I requested BMO and CS to DRS my shares and I left 10 shares in each of them and emptied my IBKR.

my main concern during this past one year always been 2 things:

1. How our brokers could fuck us? which now I feel better since DRS is the answer
2. How can I sell on the Top since CS has a selling limit like almost all the other brokers

I must say I only care for the x holders to be able to sell in Millions and right after I will sell 95% or even 100% of my shares ... I don't give shit about Infinite squeeze and burning the brokers down and other fantasies ...

Ergo I decided to contact CS, because I found out that their Selling limit online is 1 Million and on the phone is $25K ! that is if their website is up and running during MOASS ...

Ergo I learned that we have to write a letter and send it to them if our selling price is over 1 million, which will take 3 to 7 days for them to get it (if nothing goes wrong) then they need few days to process it and then they sell it in 5 business days and then 2 business days for settlement! Right there another concern came into the picture for me which then led me to ask them; what if this week's price is 10 million and I want to sell at 10 million and by the time Letter reaches you price is higher or lower?

CS told me that there is no way for you to know how much we are selling it nor there is Limit Sell order!!!!!! I was like WTF WTF WTF, does it mean that you would sell it way way lower than what it is and she said it depends on the next buyers desired market price ! you will only find out after that 7 business days! Am I retarded or is she retarded?

they sell it as a Market sell meaning some asshole could only pay 100k for a share that is 10 million today!? has anyone asked these questions? did I understand this wrong? she was very very clear about that basically doesn't matter what your desired price is, it will be market sell during that 5 business days! what if MOASS is just couple days or a week or two and by the time they start selling our shares is way way lower than what we want?
