I have a situation that I need to handle in the next few days. I'm not fucking happy about it, but I need to offload a few GME share to pay my worthless government th money they steal from me every year, or they'll steal it all.

So, the good news is that it's only a small portion of my shares, but that does raise a unique question...

If I wait until Monday and clear today as the date of record for the dividend/split/whatever... Do I still get prizes for that when they are announced, or just on the remaining shares?

Any wrinkles out there?
