This gamestop stonk dividend really puts shorts in between a rock and a hard place. Either they close out their enormous short position that has only increased since the great sneeze of 21 or they buy 7 shares for every share they are short. It's RIP for shorts. To add to this, Robinhood has yet to complete my transfer of shares on their end although they transferred the shares on 1/21 thus I'm confident they are synthetics but now safely in computershare. I wish the best for all you wonderful apes who are about to hold the entirety of Wall Street wealth in your computershare account and I hope that when it gets down to counting up each and every share we blow insider and institutional out of the water in terms of % of company held.
