In the event of a stock market collapse, I'm worried for my/my wife's teacher retirement plans that we can't liquidate and have to pick one of their investment plans. What would be the best option considering what's going on with GME, hedgefund corruption, and Evergrande defaulting on their bonds? I know it's crazy to ask a subreddit but have no one else. I hope to use the answers to narrow down the research before deciding. There has to be many of us in the same boat here! Thanks for the help!
