For those of you who are out of the loop on the NFTs and such, so much that it makes your head hurt and your butt itch, you're not alone.

In all reality, I don't understand a damn thing about the building of an NFT exchange, GME partnerships, and all the marketplace mumbo jumbo it'll create. All I care about are my shares, my purple donut, and a bank account that looks like a phone number.

I understand that all of these things are a catalyst to getting that phone number sized account, but I get lost trying to read about it and I get frustrated that soooo many more people know so much more about it than I do. I feel like the slow kid in class that's trying to keep up, but it's blatantly obvious that I'll get moved up to the next grade just because I happened to cheat off someone else's work (DFV).

I buy, I hodl, I DRS. That I know how to do. The rest of it, frankly it scares me. I missed the Pokemon craze, the Bitcoin for $1 each, FAANG at good prices. I clutch my shares tightly hoping I didn't miss this boat, and then I see all the NFT stuff and think I'm going to get left behind again.

So... For all those who feel like this but are too afraid to say anything, you're not alone. Hopefully soon I can retire, and I won't need to worry about the digital marketplace of ape pictures and things. I just want my fishing cabin, my workshop, and never have to worry about the balance in my account after a purchase ever again.
