I love scrolling through posts and seeing purple donuts for GME. But what has also been extremely interesting to see over the past few days is the sheer number of people posting that they voted through other brokers. I know that is not the same as DRS, but that tells me there is a huge number of shares that are owned by apes that are not being counted with the DRS counter.

I can't wait to hopefully hear someday what the total share account is. I think it'll be mind blowing.
