I was just told I was not able to vote based on the shares I hold with them due to CDI.

Crest depositary interest definition

A Crest Depositary Interest (CDI) is a UK financial security that represents a stock traded on a stock exchange outside the UK. CDIs are issued by CREST, and one CDI is the equivalent of one share of an eligible foreign stock.

Under UK law, actual international shares cannot be dealt directly through CREST, and so the CDIs allow investors to trade in some foreign stocks. CDIs can be settled through CREST like a regular UK share. CDIs are not traditionally listed on the London Stock Exchange, and are traded off-exchange.

Any smoothies out there that know different?

Still waiting my pin from CS, until then I'm stuck with HL

GME rocks!
