GameStop's website code refers to Astronaut day, May 5th

Speculation of course, but might this be the launch day for the GameStop NFT marketplace? 🤔

WHAT NOW?

GameStop's retail investors will almost certainly spend the remainder of the week scouring through the GameStop NFT Beta, searching for clues as to what the marketplace will be like.

Some are even speculating that the website's code may have accidentally revealed the launch date for GameStop NFT as "Astronaut day," a national holiday on May 5th.

// Automatically assigned to users who connected to the site in the period shortly after it went live (on "astronaut day")
FeatureAcl["astronaut"] = "astronaut";
// Enables the buy button
FeatureAcl["buy"] = "buy";
// Shows the full site (instead of the "coming soon" page)
FeatureAcl["comingnow"] = "comingnow";
// Lets the user mint NFTs
FeatureAcl["mint"] = "mint";
// Lets the user mint larger-than-normal NFTs
FeatureAcl["mintbig"] = "mintbig";
// Lets the user mint interactive NFTs
FeatureAcl["mintinteractive"] = "mintinteractive";
```

National Astronaut Day 2022 in United States

Code revealed on the GameStop NFT Beta on March 23rd, 2021.

Although this date does fall within with the recently announced launch before the close of Q2 2022, veteran GameStop investors are experienced enough to know to not rely on dates hidden within code.
