I've been trying to do this for a while now. I have talked to at least 7 different people at iTRADE that said they can't DRS GME to the U.S. but I have heard multiple people on here that stated they have so. One person, over a month ago knew what was going on (he said the request has picked up lately, bullish af) he said I needed to create a cash account, so I did. Then I had to wait until that was accepted before I moved some shares over. Now it's been over a week with 7 different people saying they can't initiate a transfer. Although I talked with that guy a month ago that said once they initiated the transfer there might be a fee on Computershare's end

I called Computershare in the U.S and they stated they accept all incoming transfers and don't charge a fee.

Am I missing something here? Why is this such a runaround?
