I may be wrong, but here's my thought... what if people realized that it should be a race to drs? Like once the float is locked and they stop drs transfers, you're left on the outside where it's not safe. You watch the price go to andromeda while your broker liquidated your position in the thousands. While you're saying damn.. I should have drs'd.

Why isn't that enough to get you going?
