

Title: Before the halt, Trading 212 was filling orders at $10 higher

Author: AllInYolo

Created 2022-03-29 19:10:11 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/trevse/before_the_halt_trading_212_was_filling_orders_at/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/trevse/before_the_halt_trading_212_was_filling_orders_at/

I don't have any screenshot evidence of this but maybe my fellow UK apes can corroborate

Right before the GME halt during that fall from $200 to $178, Trading212 was trading consistently $10 higher than IBKR. We're talking a good 2-3 minutes here!!

I always have both Trading212 and IBKR open at the same time and I always have both charts visible. What I can tell you is this NEVER happens.

When the price was at around 180 on IBKR I decided to try and take advantage of this price difference, and placed a sell limit order which got immediately filled at 188.xx. It was a minimum $8 difference!!

What the hell does all this mean? It wreaks of something manipulative because what I can tell you is there is never a price difference between the 2 apps of more than a few cents

I can't help but speculate that because T212 is a retail app, and IBKR is somewhat institutional, that something was forcing the price down even though retail was spamming buy orders