Looking at the recent moves by Cohen I want to throw around some thoughts on the speculated marketplace that could compete or replace the A company. So far we have GameStop offering all things gaming and electronics. Then we throw in BBBY with all the home goods they offer along with baby. Now for the tinfoil thought on SEARS offering craftsman tools, exercise equipment, makeup, appliances, auto and possibly clothes. I think. SEARS thoughts compliments of u/fuckofakaboom.

We good be potentially seeing the process in the making. Of course not financial advice and I don't know anything and is all just talk and speculation.
