Anyone else see the Gherkin posts and just think wtf? 700 awards over a post just sayin "hey I was right!" and so many anti-DRS comments and botlike simping. I never found his posts useful and only informative because he was summarizing already known information. Options don't even make sense on a highly volatile and manipulated stock like GME. Of course people do what they want but seriously look at the numbers on all his posts it's not natural.

Every time hero worship has happened it's always boiled down to shilling. I don't see him as any different than Warden, Eliot waves, dorito of doom or any other TA poster. They are ALWAYS wrong.

People do what they want sure but why tf wouldn't you DRS when we KNOW it's the safest thing and even the company itself put the count in their reports.

The whole thing reeks of forum sliding and shilling. I don't buy it for a second and I consider the sub compromised.

I'm just gonna keep buying, hodling, and DRSing.
