I saw this was removed by mods yesterday and something clicked.

"The new season of The Circle on Netflix has two members of the Spice Girls on it. RC reference?"

I saw this video of Kevin O'Leary on Twitter yesterday - Blackrock took a stake in Circle Finance, which is a major player in regards to USDC crypto stable coin. There has been speculation that Blackrock and Citadel were involved in the Luna collapse.

The Fed recently came out and said they should regulate stablecoins -- even 'take custody' of them. If the fed controls stables, they effectively control centralized digital money that could be readily seized. Maybe thats why Be Your Own Bank is a big theme on Loopring (decentralized cannot be controlled by the Fed).

The Fed has been backstopping the banks and letting inflation run hot, devaluing anything gained from over-leveraged hedge funds who took bad bets. After all, the USD is a debt instrument since the 1970's and the best way to destroy debt is through inflation.

I doubt RC was alluding to direct registration. Maybe Circle Finance needs to be looked at closer.
