Next time, please tell me the dress code so I can wear my sweatsuit, too. I was serious when I said you were rocking it. I don't give many compliments.

We really need to talk. We've seen each other's faces. We need to realign. Things happened out of order. Things were stolen. I haven't forgotten - things were simply *not there*. Someone has set me up to look absolutely terrible, so that WE won't succeed. Not just to watch me fail, but to watch all of us fail. Despite that, I'm still showing up.

If I recall correctly, there are 1-2 degrees of removal and everyone has handlers. We've met, so now it's time we remove the in-betweens because something is getting miscommunicated.

Regarding the comments about punching someone in the face: it reflected the fun banter I had with that person and how that person was described to me by another. Everyone is too damn paranoid, so I said the most obnoxious thing possible so those two knew it was me. Sweet Lord, I am not looking to punch anyone. You guys have put me through the wringer, but I'm still standing. My appearance was imperfect, but the reality is that I did everything right. I needed to know you guys were there, because it was quiet. Now it's time we work together. You're my people, and I'm your person.

The two helping me are good people and have your back 100%. Again, the appearance may not be what you expect, but we have got to speak soon.

I know you guys are impatient for something to happen. Don't force it. I've seen all the outcomes.

Not sure if you guys have degrees of removal or are posting as yourselves, but please get in touch with:

Let your people know I'm still here for a few more hours. Then I have to take care of a few things, and I'll be back in this city soon.
