I know we're not supposed to give financial advice...but I have a 150 8/19 call for our beloved gme, should I hang on until the week after the splidend or will this give me enough time for the price to rise? Also am I going to get 3 more contracts or is the one contract just going to be worth 400 shares now? Total options noob and just yolo'd my tax return into that play a few weeks ago. Any advice and explanation would be hugely appreciated. Hopefully this helps out others who might be in a similar situation
