the shareholder actions.

Does 1 share equal one vote?

If you own shares (even a fraction of a share!) in a US-listed company and you are an eligible voting shareholder, you will receive an email invitation to vote on the matters raised by the US-listed companies in which you have invested and your instructions will be relayed to the vote tabulator of the vote or the meeting accordingly. If you own a fraction of a share, the vote tabulator may or may not decide to round or ignore the fractional share-ownership, depending on the policy they decide to follow.

Revolut utilise a firm, DriveWealth LLC, who provide execution and custody services for stock trading. DriveWealth LLC, in turn, utilise a third party vendor, SAY Technologies, to manage, collate and facilitate any shareholder actions.

When shareholder actions are required, a communication will be sent to customers from SAY Technologies, on behalf of Revolut, for the respective held shares. This communication will primarily be sent via email, however in certain circumstances where email delivery has failed, a fallback postal communication method is used to ensure customers are able to participate in the shareholder actions.

Today

Hello, when will I be able to vote in the GME shareholder vote?

Rita will help you now

People using other brokers have already had the chance to vote

I have got familiar with your case and I would like to inform you that our broker-dealer in the US, DriveWealth, will not be able to offer Buys on GameStop (NYSE: $GME) and AMC Entertainment (NYSE: $AMC) due to increased capital requirements set by the Depository Trust Company (DTC).

The required amount of capital guarantee is usually around 10-15% of the value of a security's holdings on broker's books. However, this percentage can vary based on stock volatility. In the case of the above symbols, the Depository Trust Company (DTC) has enforced an increase of 250% upon DriveWealth's clearing partners.

DriveWealth have decided not to take on the large capital risk that comes with this significant increase.

If you are not holding any of these stocks, neither GME nor AMC will appear in search in Trading section.

What?

I own 14.28 shares and am asking when I will get my vote

A live agent will be with you in roughly 1 min.

Are there any further details you could share to help our live agents speed up your case?

If you have a particular issue, please explain it step-by-step. We would also appreciate any screenshot - the more details we have, the faster we can help you!

 Bilal will help you now

Hello George. My name is Bilal . It will be my pleasure helping you with your issue. Let me look into this quickly and will get back to you in a moment with all the helpful information I can find. Meanwhile, if you have any additional information please let me know.

Bilal I would like to know when I will be able to vote in the current GME shareholders vote?

I would also like to know that all of my shares equal the amount of true votes I get in the vote. And that they are rolled up in the tabulator as a much smaller number of votes vs the shares I own.

I can also view and search both of those stocks now and I don't own any AMC

Not only have you not answered my question but the information you have sent also seems incorrect

Can you please tell me have you received any email from us about the voting?

No I haven't

Also in regards to your previous message are you stating that you are effectively turning off the buy button for GME again?

I am sorry for the previous message but shareholders as of record on April 15th are eligible to take part. As trades take 2 trading days to settle, you need to buy shares at least 2 trading days before that date to be considered a shareholder on the 15th. If you are eligible, you should receive an email from our partner soon.

Ok but what's about your other message? Are you about to stop people from buying more GME shares soon?

For the second time...

Thank you for patiently waiting. I have requested the relevant team to take a look
