First of all I'm gonna say that this is not new at all but I'm hoping to bring it to the attention of more people. I can say without a singular doubt that GME has been mirroring the SPY ETF to a T for as long as I've been tracking both of these stocks side by side. And that's been at least 3 months. Ken isn't working overtime, his algo is. We're literally hitched onto the trailer of SPY and if you wanted to you could probably make some guaranteed side-money with this knowledge. NFA. It's so disappointing seeing everyone get excited about days like today when we rip for $17 and I check SPY and it's got almost the identical trend for the day. When SPY inevitably falls off a cliff from the govt. not being able to prop it up anymore, GME will probably follow suit AT FIRST but ape buying pressure and ownership will halt that and once we're separated from SPY the algo won't be able to compute the rapid spreading between the two stocks and we'll start the rip. I don't believe the govt. is propping up the market to prevent our run, they've got way bigger fish to fry. But Citadel knows they're propping SPY and basically waiting until they're done kicking the can for him to quit it too. Just my thoughts.
